Knürr® AirControl

Efficient cooling for critical environments

Knürr AirControl supports the reliable operation of active components in 19-inch technical areas and lays the foundation for stable operating conditions in demanding control room environments.

The solution helps to specifically reduce thermal loads, increase the availability of the installed equipment and minimise the risk of temperature-related faults during operation. Particularly in control rooms and control centres, where reliability and system stability are crucial, Knürr AirControl makes a decisive contribution to the long-term safe and efficient operation of systems. Demand-driven air management support helps to avoid critical hot spots and sustainably improve the operational reliability of the infrastructure.

Thanks to its easy integration into standard 19-inch environments, Knürr AirControl can be flexibly incorporated into a variety of application scenarios and supports future-proof technical concepts, even as requirements increase.
